About this piece

Mackay Hugh Baillie Scott (attributed). An oak rush-seated elbow chair, with a heart cut-out splat probably for The Guild of Handicraft, the back splat angling forward from the head rest to the seat and with an 'A' frame back with a very intricate rush seat which fits snugly between the side stretchers below the arms, with square legs united by unusual upper stretchers and lower floor stretchers with wavy details to the underneath of them, 113cm high .
