About this piece

By W. A. S. Benson, a copper and brass telescopic table lamp aligned to the Arts and Crafts movement (1880 to 1910), c.1900. The adjustable stem rises through a knuckle collar, flanked by paired loop supports that descend to a tri-form stand and a petal-cast base. The clean geometry and honest construction are characteristic of Benson's workshop production, combining utility with refined line.

W. A. S. Benson Catalogue number 390.
